

I am opposed to any easing of the rules proscribing the ability of corporations to acquire and control multi-media in any particular market. America depends on a variety of perspective, points of view and sources for its news and information and maintaining a healthy mix of independent, freestanding media outlets is critically important to our freedom and democracy.